

ILLINOIS COAL STRIKE ENDED BY AGREEMENT TODAY

VIOLENCE LIST GROWS; ATTEMPT RAILROAD PEACE

Executives Gather in New York — Violence Widespread.

RAIL STRIKE SUMMARY

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS) Railway executives began gathering in New York for conference to answer train service brotherhoods' mediation proposals for settlement of shopmen's strike.

Southern Railway officials running passenger trains as result of walkout of engineers and firemen at Spencer, North Carolina, on the Washington Atlantic line, in protest against presence of armed guards.

Firemen at Princeton, Ind., on strike on Southern Railway, union leaders claiming train service between Louisville and St. Louis suspended.

Violence continues, including bombing of railroad men's hotel at Smithfield, Pa., and kidnapping eight negro rail workers at Salisbury, North Carolina.

Attorneys for striking shopmen at Cleburne, Texas, plan court test of Texas "open port" law.

Federal and state officials continue investigation of wreck of express train at Gary, Ind., Sunday.

Washington, Aug. 22.—President Harding, although hopeful of success for the New York rail strike settlement, was said at the White House today to be undecided to take any other steps than those stated in his recent address to congress.

The declaration to congress that the laws would be enforced and the rights of workers to enter railroad guaranteed, it was added, will remain as the final government statement until there is a change in the situation.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Walkouts by trainmen on the Southern Railway, resulting in tieups in North Carolina; bombings, beating and wreck plots marked the nation's rail strike situation today as the hour drew closer for new peace negotiation in New York tomorrow.

While the move for a settlement of the strike hung suspended pending the New York meeting of rail heads and leaders of the transportation brotherhoods, mediators for the striking shopmen, train crews on the Southern Railway refused to turn a wheel or enter the yards at Spencer, North Carolina, where troops sent by Governor Morrison, remained on guard.

Violence Flares Up

Violence continued to flare in various sections of the country.

At Huntington, West Virginia, a second attempt to dynamite a Chesapeake & Ohio railroad bridge was frustrated when a track walker frightened three men from the trestle. They left a box of dynamite and 40 feet of fuse behind.

San Bernardino, Cal., remained in a high state of excitement over renewed outbreaks in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe yards. A striking electrician was killed and another striker perhaps fatally wounded in a running gun battle with a negro waiter employed at the commissary inside the Santa Fe enclosure. According to police, the negro said he emptied a pistol at five men who followed him from the shop gates. A strong guard was thrown around the jail where the negro was held.

Linemen for the Missouri & North Arkansas Railroad discovered an obstruction on the tracks near Harrison, Arkansas, and removed it ten minutes before a train passed the spot. Oil had been placed on either side of the tracks where a heavy iron bar was placed.

Workers Are Beaten

H. D. Fought, an employee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad shops at Little Rock, Ark., told the police that he and a companion were kidnapped, taken to a grove on a river bank and beaten by a party of men. Fought escaped after a struggle, but said he did not know the fate of his companion who was receiving a terrible beating.

J. D. Fenster, a boiler maker, employed in the Louisville & Nashville shops at Boyles, Ala., was kidnapped and beaten unconscious by a crowd of men, according to officers who investigated the story he told after he made his way to police headquarters.

The situation on the Southern Railway remained critical today as trainmen, switchmen and clerks called meetings to decide whether their walkout at Spencer should remain permanent during the rail crisis.

State troops were also thrown around the postoffice at Salisbury, N. C., following an attack on Rev. Tom C. Jinsion, pastor of a Methodist church.

WOULD PRESERVE LINCOLN'S LIFE FILM FOR AGES

Want Historical Reel Sealed Until 300th Birthday.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Offer of a sealed copy of the fifteen reel picture of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln, which is in progress of production has been made to the United States government and the National Lincoln Memorial Commission for deposit in Washington until the 300th anniversary of Lincoln's birth, February 12, 2109, it was announced by the producers here this morning.

Suggestion was made by the producers that the film be kept in Smithsonian Institute.

With the film itself, the company has offered a motion picture machine, with full instructions how to operate it, sealed in a steel vault specially constructed, to preserve the film and machine from deterioration in the long years it will lay inactive. The machine and directions would be deposited with the film to guard against changes certain to come in projection practice, producers announced.

They have secured the word of a photographic film expert that the film, if properly packed, should keep alive throughout the intervening 186 years.

Little Ogle County Girl Is Accomplished Horsewoman.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 22.—The society horse show at the Central States Fair, will be opened tonight by Senator Medill McCormick's young daughter, Katherine, who will drive her prize winning pony, O. Jai. The pony is almost as tall as the little girl, but she is a finished reinsman and isn't subject to stage fright, her fond father said.

Senator McCormick and his family and Governor Small were guests of the fair today and united with thousands of others, in showing honors to E. H. "Pop" Geers for whom the day was designated.

The aged reinsman drove his pacer Sanardo, 1594, to beat the mile record on a half mile track.

In addition to the Sanardo exhibition there are two $1,000 stake races on the program, the Illinois stake for 2:16 trotters and the Central States stake for 2:12 pacers. A third race is for three year old pacers, purse $500. The meeting will continue for four days.

Hobble 'Em and Cut Out "Monkey Shines" Says Dance Master

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Aug. 22.—Major Ned Gaynes of Culver Military Academy in Indiana, welcomes back the long skirt, in his capacity as one of the leaders of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing in session here, because the long skirt discourages kicking and the erratic movements of the jazz step.

The major insisted that dancing is an art, not a joke, and that if a man holds his feminine partner more than lightly against his breast, the woman is more than 80 per cent to blame. He said the fox trot and tango had been combined into a fox trot-tango, and that the waltzes was again to be a favorite this fall and winter.

"Ninety-five per cent of ball room naughtiness is due to ignorance," the major said, "the other five per cent is vulgarity. Dancing is an art. Any monkey can toddle. Nice people are recalling that they are not monkeys."

UNFIT ENGINE CAUSED WRECK UNIONS STATE

Railroads Criticized for Bad Condition of Trains.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Declaring the "real cause" of the Michigan Central wreck at Gary, Ind., early Sunday "was clearly an unfit locomotive," and characterizing the railroad's charges that the wreck was due to plotters as a "hastily patched up explanation to place the blame for loss of life upon the striking shop men instead of on the railroad, where it belongs," J. F. McGrath, vice president of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor today said the wreck did not differ "a particle from wrecks reported each day from various parts of the country."

"Reports are based upon an investigation by company officials and armed guards," he said. "What can the public expect to get in the way of unbiased reports from men who are hired to fight the employees on strike? What is more, they are not railroad men, and therefore cannot be trusted to investigate an accident which involved the death of the engine crew. An investigation of this kind should have been reported to us since the strike had occurred at sixty miles an hour, the newspapers would have had no room for other news. Such wreck result directly from the deterioration of equipment, which goes on at an increasing rate every day the strike lasts. It is only when the wreck is serious enough to get into the papers that the real cause is covered over. As a matter of fact, it is reported that this very train had experienced engine trouble after it left Detroit."

Jury Verdict Says "Plot."

McGrath's statement came on the heels of the verdict of the coroner's jury which found that the engineer subject to a month's suspension was responsible for the wrecked express car, as a result of a plot to wreck the train.

It also followed an announcement by State's Attorney Crowe's office admitting failure to discover sabotage plots in correspondence seized in raids on the offices of William Z. Foster, radical leader and head of the Trades Union Educational League.

Absolute Radical Leaders.

Federal investigators asserted that Foster had been under close surveillance for a long time and declared they were known if track wrecking was to have played a part in the "one big union" program of Foster and his followers.

Foster's activities, so far as federal and state investigators could learn, was confined to his efforts to convert trades unionists to his "one big union" idea, through which, it was asserted, Foster hopes to gain control of American labor organizations.

McGrath cited numerous derailments in various sections of the country to support his charges of the use of crippled equipment by the railroads.

Worn Flanges the Cause.

"Most of the wrecks reported are due to sharp flanges or defective brakes," he continued. Sharp or broken flanges cause an engine to ride the rails. It is customary, when qualified inspectors are employed, for the engine to be then tried up, or the car wheels replaced, before the rolling stock is allowed to proceed.

"But we have accurate reports from many roads showing that not 5 per cent of the usual number of wheels have been replaced since July 1 and lack of inspection places the whole burden of defective wheels upon the train crew. The public has little conception of the debt which it owes to the transportation men, who at the risk of incurring the displeasure of their employers, have refused to take out defective engines and cars.

Blame the Railroad.

"The Michigan Central has hastily patched up an explanation to place the blame for loss of life upon the striking shop men, instead of on the railroad where it belongs. This was more easily because engine crew was killed and so could not give testimony to the defective condition of the locomotive which they were called upon to drive sixty miles an hour.

"No two reports as to the number of spikes 'maliciously' withdrawn agree. As a matter of fact, it is agreed that a long section of track was torn up after the engine left the rails. This is a natural case. Drawn spikes and torn up rails are regularly caused when a heavy engine rides the rails. Altogether, to a railroad man as contrasted with private detectives, the real cause was clearly an unfit locomotive."

Federal investigation of the Gary wreck was continued meanwhile. Agents under orders from the department of justice took a number of striking shopmen into custody at Gary for questioning.

Attorney Walter S. Slinger of Sterling was a professional visitor in Dixon this morning.

CHARGE BLOOMINGTON GIRL'S DEATH WAS A COLD BLOODED MURDER

Supposed Burning from Stove Appears As Fiendish Murder.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Denver, Colo., Aug. 22.—With the arrest of Albert J. Gove, an insurance agent, on a charge of murder, the police at Greeley, Colorado, announced today that the warrant was issued as a result of a month's investigation following the death there ostensibly through the explosion of a gasoline stove of Edna J. Skinner, 22-year-old school teacher of Bloomington, Illinois.

The authorities stated that they had accumulated evidence tending to show that the young woman, who is a sister of Gove's wife, was persuaded by him to buy an insurance policy from him, naming him as the beneficiary. The policy he sold her was in reality her own death warrant, for he immediately, the authorities allege, began to plot against her in a way that not only would enable him to collect the $2,000 death benefit, but also an added $500 payable should the insured meet death through accident.

Beat Her to Death?

To accomplish this, the police allege, Gove beat his kinswoman to death with a heavy stove weight, saturated the body in gasoline, wrecked an oil stove to simulate an explosion and set fire to the kitchen of his home in which the proceedings took place.

This, the authorities state, occurred a month ago, but nothing was suspected until Gove reached Bloomington, Illinois, with the corpse and, it is said, objected to the relatives opening the coffin prior to burial there. Since that time, the police have conducted an investigation, with the result that the warrant charging murder was sworn out on the arrival of the mother at Greeley yesterday.

MISSOURI VETS COMMITTEE IS SILENT ON KLAN

Resolutions Attack "Forty and Eight" Legion Society.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Hannibal, Mo., Aug. 22.—The fourth annual convention of the American Legion of Missouri went into its final day's session this morning having disposed of the resolutions report in a session which lasted until midnight last night. Consideration of it and the credentials committee report brought heated debate several times.

The resolutions report as approved bears no mention of the Ku Klux Klan in any particular, no proposals referring to that issue getting out of the committee. There had been reports that the St. Louis delegation would push the matter to a decision on the floor but no such effort developed.

Against "Forty and Eight"

The much-discussed attack on the "Forty and Eight," the so-called playground of the legion, was incorporated in a resolution and approved by a two to one vote. The resolution calls for the appointment of a committee to investigate the society and if it is found to be "opposed to the broad principles of the legion," the state commander is authorized to take the necessary steps to sever all relations of the legion with the society in Missouri. The resolution charges that the society's membership is not open to all legionnaires but is secured by solicitation among only certain members of the legion.

Several other resolutions were adopted including one endorsing A. A. Sprague in his controversy with Brigadier General Sawyer over the hospitalization question.

The convention adjourns today with election of officers.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 22.—Dedication of a baby village and new state buildings given to the Moose Vocational School at Mooseheart by Moose and the laying of a cornerstone for a $250,000 plaza which Ohio members of the order are financing, today held the attention of the 10,000 delegates and friends who are attending the 32nd annual convention.

The Baby Village, which is a miniature city in white and the state buildings cost almost $400,000. The village which is the gift of Pennsylvania Moose represents an outlay of $160,000.

The order in which the buildings were dedicated was: Baby Village; Wisconsin Building; New Jersey Building; Indiana Building; laying of cornerstone of Ohio Plaza.

There are thirty large buildings now at Mooseheart which is the national headquarters of the Moose as well as the location of its vocational school.

Millions have been invested in the school and there is a great farm in which boy agricultural students learn to be farmers.

Mrs. Cartwright of Oregon One of Principal Witnesses.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Aug. 22.—State and federal investigators combined forces in sifting the affairs of Albert J. Moore, "home healer," whose hearing on charges of "deception" brought together a number of prominent and wealthy society women as witnesses today.

State's Attorney Crowe continued the probe to determine whether Moore must face charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and operating a confidence game, in addition to the one of "deceiving his disciples" at his life institute for mending broken hearts and healing unhappy homes.

Federal authorities entered the investigation to learn whether Moore included contributions to his "life institute" in his income tax returns.

Mrs. Cartwright Witness.

Several prominent women, including Mrs. James H. Cartwright, wife of Justice Cartwright of the Illinois Supreme Court, were summoned as witnesses today. Mrs. W. W. Talcott, wife of a Chicago ice cream manufacturer, was among Moore's former "disciples" called to the hearing. It was Mr. Talcott who brought about Moore's arrest.

The "home healer," according to city and county prosecutors, reaped a harvest in money he is said to have obtained from women who joined his cult, the object of which, according to its founder, was to make homes divorce proof and the world better.

OWNERS AGREE TO OLD SCALE FOR ILL. MINES

Settlement Reached Ends Strike Which Began April 1.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—An agreement to settle the Illinois coal strike was reached this afternoon by the sub-committee of Illinois operators and miners scale committees, the Associated Press learned this afternoon.

The settlement plan is simply a renewal of the 1921-1922 wage contract, which is in accord with the recent Cleveland agreement for settlement of the nation-wide coal strike, which began on April 1 last.

Although the settlement plan had not been signed, the leaders in the sub-committee conference were agreed that the ratification of the agreement would not be long delayed.

"I am going home tonight," W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the fifth and ninth district operators' association, said in emphasizing the fact that an agreement had been reached.

To Sign This Afternoon.

The draft of the agreement reached by the sub-committee was not expected to be long. Its exact form was said not to be ready for publication and was expected to be signed promptly at a joint conference of the full wage scale committee of operators and miners at 2 p. m. The ratification appeared to be little more than a formality, according to leading operators who agreed that the settlement had been decided upon.

The joint session for ratification was delayed while the operators members of the sub-committee reported to the operators' wage scale committee.

The announcement of the sub-committee was confirmed by W. K. Kavanaugh, who said the affixing of signatures was merely a matter of a short time.

"The agreement is simply a renewal of the old contract which expired April 1, 1922, when the strike began," Mr. Kavanaugh said. "It is, of course, based on the recent Cleveland agreement."

Holst Coal Tomorrow.

With the signing of the settlement agreement, leading operators said they expected hoisting of coal in some mines would start some time tomorrow.

Signers of the peace pact was to be followed by mine workers district officials sending telegrams ordering the miners back to the pit. Unless the signing should be too long, mine whistles in some districts were expected to be blown at 6 o'clock tonight, calling the first shift men to the pits.

340,000 Tons Per Day.

There are 357 mines in Illinois which within ten days could be producing the natural output of 340,000 tons a day according to officials of coal associations. This output, it was said, probably could be continued for at least two weeks, when due to congestion on the railroads, production probably would be slowed down to approximately 250,000 tons daily.

Agreement Confirmed.

The agreement of the sub-committee was publicly confirmed at the joint session of operators and miners full scale committees this afternoon. The doors of the meeting room were thrown open and the sub-committee members in the presence of members of their associations cast an oral vote for settlement.

"The agreement is in accord with the Cleveland agreement, the terms of which are generally familiar to all," Mr. Farrington announced. "This means that the old wage scale and working conditions rules will remain in force until March 31, 1923."

Today's Market Report

Wheat and Corn Show Upturns

By Associated Press Leased Wire.
Chicago, Aug. 22.—Wheat values took an upward swing at the start here today in sympathy with an advance at Liverpool. The strength in the Chicago markets late yesterday was reflected on the other side of the Atlantic today and was responsible for the firmness there. There was some short covering here during the early dealings and it took but little commission house selling to make a reaction, the market easing off quickly. There was a good demand for cash wheat from the seaboard for export and some sales were reported made over night, but the quantities were not given. Receipts of wheat here today were 448,000 bushels. The opening, which varied from 1/4 to 3/4 higher, with Sept. 1.01 1/4 to 1/4 and Dec. 1.03 to 1/4, was followed by a slight general setback all around.

Wheat fluctuated rapidly within a wide range and rallied sharply toward the finish. An over sold condition was disclosed when values started upward. Covering by shorts was general and offerings were light on the way up. The close was strong, values showing a net gain of 1/4 to 1/2 with Sept. 1.02 1/4 to 1.02 3/4 and Dec. 1.03 1/4 to 1.03 3/4.

Offering of corn were light. The opening figures for wheat with unchanged figures to 1/4 higher with Sept. 59 1/2 to 60, was followed by a moderate decline on all deliveries. General short covering was on in corn and with an over sold condition and stop loss orders, prices reacted and advanced sharply, the close being strong, with values ranging from 1/4 to 1/2 higher, with Sept. 60 1/4 to 1/4, the market held close to the initial range.

IMPARTIAL BODY
Washington, Aug. 22.—While the senate labor committee was taking the first formal action toward creation of the coal fact-finding commission recommended by President Harding, the president let it be known today that he was disposed to insist that the investigating body be made up exclusive of impartial representatives of the public without special representation for either mine operators or employees.

A bill for a commission on which the President would be free to choose representatives of the operators, miners or the public as he saw fit, was favorably reported by the senate committee.

At the same time the house interstate commerce commission, working independently refused to strike from its tentative bill a provision which would expressly prohibit membership on the commission by any person having any interest or connection with the coal industry.

The house committee's bill also was favorably reported after a number of changes were made from the form in which it originally was drafted by Chairman Winslow. As perfected, it provides for a commission of nine members, while the measure drawn by the senate committee specifies that the membership shall be five.

In each bill the commission is provided sweeping powers of investigation.

Marathon Golfer is Champion; 22 Rounds Played in One Day

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Spokane, Wash., Aug. 22.—The marathon golf championship of the United States was claimed today by Arthur Velguth, 44, a contractor who yesterday played 22 rounds on the Spokane Down River Golf Course—a feat that required a walk of about fifty-three miles.

How did he do it? By eating raw eggs, cream and rice bread and keeping regular hours as means of keeping fit. Mr. Velguth said. He confessed however, to smoking 15 to 16 good cigars a day. "I've never been addicted to cigarettes," he stated.

The marathon record was made under ordinary conditions. Play was started at 4:20 a. m., and completed at 7:30 p. m. The 193 holes were played with an average of 5.4 strokes each, total 1069 strokes. The course is par 36 and Velguth's average round was 48.59. Play was continuous, the caddy taking all available short cuts and Mr. Velguth walking about three and a half miles an hour.

Praises the Game
"All this business of complaining that their physical powers are on a down grade after they pass 40 is pitiful," Mr. Velguth said in commenting on his endurance. "It is all a matter of behaving one's self. I started to play the game last June on my 44th birthday and have studied it closely because golf has demonstrated its virtues as a physical and mental sustainer."

SOLUTION TO QUEER TRIANGLE ON COAST MEETS WITH HITCH

Artist's Wife Changes Her Mind About Selling Husband.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 22.—What seemed yesterday to be a solution of the eternal triangle for Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Kendrick and Mrs. Edith Huntington Speckels Wakefield of San Francisco and Sausalito today did not seem quite so likely to work out.

Mrs. Wakefield, who was the first wife of the late "Jack" Speckels, son of John D. Speckels, Sr., Pacific coast capitalist, according to her published admission, made an offer of $100 a month for the rest of her life, to Mrs. Kendrick if she would divorce Kendrick, a newspaper artist, so that Mrs. Wakefield could marry him, that is as soon as Mrs. Wakefield herself secured a divorce.

May Not Sell Hubby.
The offer, yesterday, it was said would probably be accepted, but early today the artist's wife intimated she might take some legal action other than divorce, and that at any rate she would consult an attorney before doing anything.

According to the versions of the unusual case, which all of the persons involved give, Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick had separated. Mrs. Kendrick is ill and has spent much of her time in sanitariums. Mrs. Wakefield and Kendrick fell in love with each other and finally agreed they would marry if they could get their freedom and that Mrs. Kendrick and her baby could live with them if she wished or be "taken care of."

Mrs. Kendrick, the persons agree to saying, was brought from a sanitarium to Mrs. Wakefield's home in Sausalito across the bay from San Francisco where she remained for several weeks as a guest, receiving care and medical attention.

Gave Her Wedding Ring.
It was while in Mrs. Wakefield's home, the three persons aver, that Mrs. Kendrick revealed she no longer loved her husband, and the revelation that Mrs. Wakefield did, together with her offer, followed. It also was admitted that Mrs. Kendrick gave her wedding ring to Mrs. Wakefield, saying that under the circumstances she did not want it, and that she was "sick, weary and disillusioned."

Mrs. Wakefield is 39, Kendrick is 32, and his wife is 24. Mrs. Wakefield has three children, the oldest of which is 19. Speckels was their father. Mrs. Wakefield was bequeathed $60,000, "Jack" Speckels' will.

SONGS OF LIGHT—

The wind strikes the pyramids of silence
And they fall into fragments of glistering melody.
And drift beyond the forests and hills
Into sudden distant pyramids of gold.
The wind serpents around their glimmering pinnacles of silence.

And whirled off into outer blue,
And perhaps goes ruffling and panting
To where the loose-tressed maidens of space
Are floating on the winds of centuries.

The sun robed with noons stands on
The pulpit of heaven,
Like an anchorite preaching his faith
Of light to listening space.

And I am one of the sun's lost words,
A ray that pierces through endless
Emptiness on emptiness,
Seeking in vain to be freed of its burden
Of splendor.

—Pascal D'Angelo in the Bookman.

Such was the position of the French government with regard to the reparations question as outlined this afternoon by Premier Poincare at the opening session of the general council of the department of the Meuse.

"The day Germany recognizes loyalty by her obligations toward France and carries them out with good grace," Mr. Poincare declared, "we will not refuse to examine with her the best methods of assuring the prompt and regular execution of the treaty of Versailles."

Harvey Baby's Mother and Grandmother Are Ill with Diphtheria

Word from Chicago today is to the effect that both the mother and grandmother of little Charles Harvey, Jr., who died in a Chicago hospital Saturday from diphtheria, are ill at the same institution with the same disease. The remains of the little victim of the dread disease were laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery yesterday.

Germany Refuses to Pledge Mines on Allied Debt

Berlin, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Minister of Finance Hermes was reported today to have left no doubt in yesterday's deliberations with members of reparations commission that the pledging of state forests on the left bank of the Rhine and state mines in the Ruhr district as guarantees for payment of German reparations was impossible.

FACTORY Piano Sale

SPECIAL BARGAINS FOR 4 DAYS ONLY

We have just been notified that the vacant store room south of the theatre, which we have been using for surplus storage, has been rented and have only four days to remove our goods. If price or terms mean anything we will quickly obtain our objective. Glance in our windows—you will see what we are up against. For four days only we have sharply reduced a number of the world's great makes of Pianos and Player Pianos, new, used and shop worn. Come in now if you intend to buy within the next two years—as our factory prices will simply astound you. Prices and terms almost unbelievable.

No Money Down!

88-NOTE PLAYER PIANO $295 As Low as

OUR GUARANTEE

For generations we have made it a practice to stand back of each Piano we sell, regardless of the date or time limit stated in the guarantee. We can look back over fifty years and recall the hundreds of Piano concerns that have come and gone, and with them, have seen their promises and guarantees grow worthless.

The John Church Company lives on, because we have no dissatisfied customers to our knowledge—old or new. See the beautiful used Player-Piano described, truly remarkable values for the money. Trade in your old Piano or Phonograph and you won't have to pay one cent down.

USED UPRIGHT PIANO $49 As Low as

As we have stated before this is not a fly-by-night concern and wish to call your attention to the fact that our famous book called "Gospel Hymns" has had the largest sale of any book ever written, with the exception of the Bible—while the Everett, Harvard, Dayton and Valentine Pianos have long been recognized by Piano authorities as Pianos which may be called "masterpieces" in the art of Piano building, as each represents the best in its particular grade that human hands and brains can build. Besides these makes of OUR manufacture, we handle such world-famous instruments as the Weber, Steck, Estey, Ludwig, Kohler & Campbell, and many others. Thus, we can safely boast of having the finest array of famous makes of Pianos to sell of any Piano concern in this country.

EDUCATIONAL PREPAREDNESS

In two or three weeks the schools will be opening all over this broad land. It would be interesting if a survey could be made to see in how many communities the school buildings are actually ready for the year's work.

There will be the usual increase in enrollments in most districts. In how many of these is there adequate provision for the incoming tide? How many children will have to be housed in temporary quarters, how many where the seats are ill adjusted, the lighting bad, the sanitary conditions poor? How many building projects which it was proclaimed last year would be rapidly pushed to completion still hang fire while elders quarrel over politics or finances? How many of last year's recognized evils will bob up serenely this year to halt
the processes of education?

After the schools open each fall there is loud clamor because the schools are overcrowded. Building programs which should have been completed are started, the shift plan for classes is pressed into service.
There is confusion where there should be calm, distraction where there should be every facility for concentration. Will it be any different this year?

Theoretically the American people believe in education and know that it is the cure for most of the troubles which afflict this and other nations.
We say that in proportion as we educate our children we shall spare them the ills that have befallen us.
But a survey of the nation's preparedness to educate in 1922 would foully reveal some strange discrepancies between theory and practice.

TO PLAN THE BEST ROUTE

Rockford Register-Gazette: A committee of Dixon citizens have taken up the matter of employing a capable landscape engineer to go over the Black Hawk trail route, between Rockford and Dixon, make a careful study of conditions and offer suggestions to the engineers of the state highway department as to the route to be followed when this bond issue highway is laid out, to the end that no scenic beauty may be lost in its construction. This highway will follow Rock River much of the distance and it will be one of the most attractive in the state when completed.

Several years ago Rockford people, at the initiative of George D. Roper, took this matter up and considerable data was secured by a St. Louis engineer who was employed for the purpose.

The Dixon committee will come to Rockford next week to get in touch with Mr. Roper and other local citizens, take advantage of such data as has already been worked up on the subject and enlist the co-operation of this and other cities on the Black Hawk Trail.

It is expected that a survey of the stretch of this highway between Byron and Oregon will be started within the course of the next ten days and, if possible, the heavy grading on that section will be done this fall.
The 1922 road construction program of the state highway department has been seriously impaired by the combination of railroad and coal strikes, coming as they have while construction work is right at its "peak" and would so continue for at least sixty days. The department was constructing better than thirty miles a day of concrete highway when these strikes broke, but work has naturally been seriously handicapped by the difficulty in getting coal and road materials.

Everybody in the Rock River valley is deeply interested in the Black

Hawk trail route and in every movement connected therewith for enhancing its beauty and permanent value. We are therefore all in sympathy with the effort which is being put forth by the committee of Dixon citizens.

SHORTER LETTERS

Interesting glimpses of American epistolary development continue to come out in terse postoffice reports.
One recent statement from the department is "Americans are writing
shorter letters."

So short a time as fifteen years ago letters weighed forty pieces to the pound. To day there are forty-five pieces to the pound. Some one says the answer is that present day lovers
do not indulge in the flowery flights of a decade or so ago. The modern miss has abbreviated her letters as well as her skirts, and her swain, too busy keeping up with the rush of current affairs, has cut his replies to a business length.

The real answer is probably the typewriter. Practically all business correspondence and an increasing amount of personal correspondence are now done by means of the typewritten word. The same amount of information or sentiment may be put down in a great deal less space, with a saving of time as well as of paper and ink, by this medium. And the typewriter has influenced the penned letter, too. Any one who has used a typewriter much, thrown back upon pen or pencil, finds himself impatient at the slower method and curtails his writing accordingly.

It would perhaps be a sad thing to have the art of fine letter writing lost completely, but as a means of communication it is no longer really needed. Wire and wireless and transportation facilities are bridging the distances formerly covered necessarily only by the long letter.

CHILD LITERATURE

In recent years there has been a flood of children's books almost as overwhelming as the outpouring of new fiction and biography for grown ups. Some of the results have been good, but, as with the adult literature, a great mass of it has been poor stuff. For a while some anxious critics feared that child taste would be ruined, and with it adult taste for good literature. Such is not the case.

At the American Library association's recent convention and at the earlier convention of the National Education association, delegates were asked to choose from a list of 100 children's books the 25 volumes which they considered best for a library in a one-room country school.
Little Women by Louisa M. Alcott and Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass led all the rest. This might appear to be only the mature views of librarians or teachers as to what they thought best for children. The fact is that Little Women was a better seller in 1921 than in 1896, and that the serious-minded little Alice of the well known adventures is as dearly beloved today as ever.

The new books come—and go. An infinite number of modern jingles may be written and printed in profusely illustrated books, but none of them have succeeded in putting Mother Goose on the retired list.
Modern fairies of new names and faces are attractively set forth in colorful volumes, but the old fairy tales, which are the outgrowth of folk lore are the truly popular ones.
The new books are read, of course, and go to swell Christmas giving and some of them doubtless are good and will last. They will do so, however, not by pushing out the fine old stories, but by taking a proud place beside them.

A CRIMINAL NATION

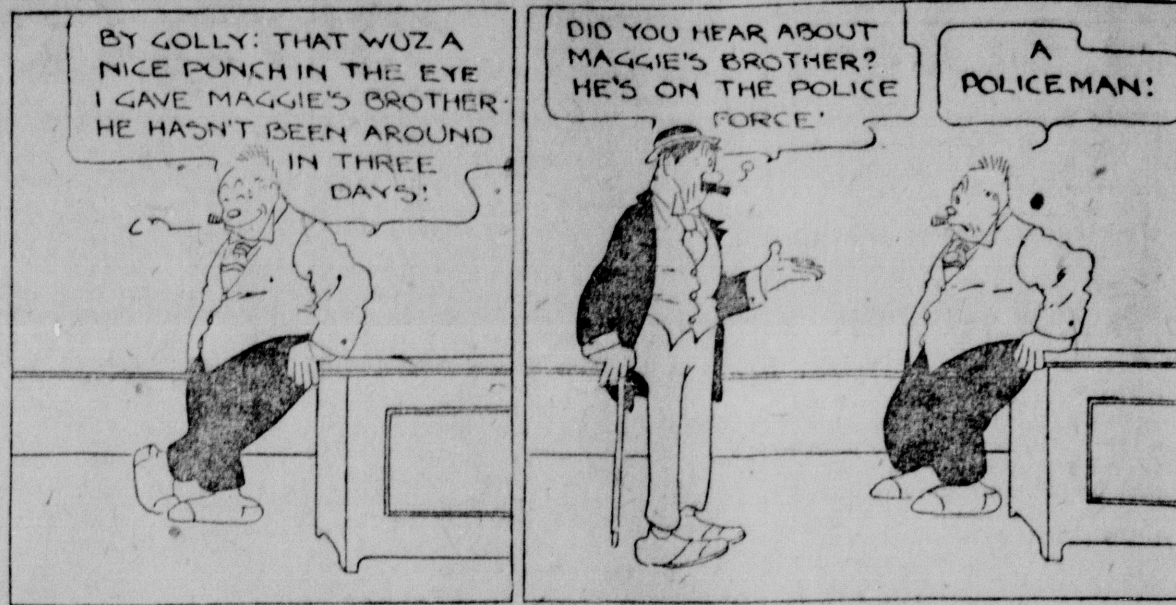

It is not exactly agreeable to read,
in a report submitted to the American Bar association, that "the criminal situation in the United States,
so far as crimes of violence are concerned, is worse than that of any other civilized country."

In substantiation of this statement
the association's committee on law enforcement says that there were in this country last year 9500 unlawful homicides, and that in no year of the last ten has the number fallen below 8500. Moreover, the committee finds burglaries have increased 1200 per cent in ten years.

How is this shameful situation accounted for? Very largely, the committee thinks, by the freedom with which firearms are obtainable. It estimates that more than 90 per cent of the crimes of violence are committed by the use of pistols, and that present laws prohibiting the carrying of deadly weapons work to the benefit of the criminals rather than of the law-abiding citizens.

Accordingly the committee declares that the pistol serves no useful purpose in present day life, and recommends a law prohibiting the manu-

MOLES AND WARTS

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP

Does that mole or wart on your face bother you every time you look in the mirror?

If you are young, a wart or mole will not harm you, except as an unsightly blemish. In advanced age, however, it may turn into a malignant growth. A cancer sometimes manifests itself in the form of a wart or mole.

It is for this reason, perhaps more than because they are beauty spoiling marks, that people have them removed.

The electric needle is used to remove small moles. For the larger ones the X-ray, radium and "dioxide
snow" have been successfully employed.

For a large mole an operation which is not as bad as it sounds is that of carefully cutting out the blemish and drawing the edges together.
Sometimes a wart may be removed by use of salicylic acid.
Cleanliness has often been found useful in getting rid of warts. An abundance of soap and water, followed by the use of a powder, such as boric acid or alum, often will do where other things are of no use.

facture and sale of pistols and cartridges "save as such manufacture and official use under proper legal restrictions and control."

This is only what a large part of the American press has been urging for years. The facts should be patent to every one. How much longer are we going to continue furnishing arms to criminals to help they prey on society?

MONUMENT TO BASEBALL

It is a clever idea of the American League to raise a monument to baseball in Washington. Baseball as the national pastime has been our emotional pacifier and equalizer, and it has been more effective than many ponderous measures in training the people to the buoyance of spirit essential to American progress.

Recreation is one of the greatest of the imperative necessities. It is impossible to preserve mental poise without it. Baseball especially deserves a monument.

Members of the National Hairdressers' association declare that it is decreed that bobbed hair shall go out of fashion. Hair will be worn high on the head, so high as to expose half of each ear. The new style is called the "horsehead dressing." It will be fashionable to wear hair of different color every day. Why do women need hats if they are allowed by convention to wear wigs of different colors? Why not put a little more trimming on the hair and call it all headgear?

William G. McAdoe whispered into the ear of an intractable mule near Yosemite, Calif., and the stubborn beast obediently stepped aside and let the sightseeing party pass the pack train. McAdoe learned a lot about mules while he was a public official. It is evident, too, that he still stands in with his party.

The soviet is going forward backward or vice versa. The governmental receipts for the year at 360 trillion rubles and the expenditures at 760 trillion rubles. Most amazing financiering. Russia renounced the gold standard for paper money, which it finds, causes economic dropsy.

The London press is excited over the announcement that Lloyd George has received $400,000 for his memoirs. It would pay him to come to the United States on a lecture tour. The British prime minister has not contracted for enough pay, as

move small moles. For the larger
ones the X-ray, radium and "dioxide
snow" have been successfully employed.

CHOCOLATE ROOSTER MELTS.

Something dreadful happened.
The Chocolate Rooster had fallen into the lake on the Tinky-Winkle Star and was half melted before the Twins rescued him.

Suddenly Nancy saw a fire on shore.

"We'll take you there and dry you, poor dear," she said kindly, "and then we can go on. We simply must find Flap-Doodle, the wicked fairy who has caused all this trouble with the wand he stole from the Fairy Queen."

The fire was high and hot, but not body was around tending to it. Not a Tinky-Winkler was in sight.

"Maybe it's a magic fire," said Nick. "Maybe Flap-Doodle is sorry he changed you into chocolate and he's caused this fire to dry you out."

The Twins were so busy looking around to see if Flap-Doodle was near that they had not noticed what had happened.

Suddenly their eyes met a dreadful sight. The Chocolate Rooster had disappeared completely and in his place was nothing but a little pool of melted chocolate.

The fire, instead of drying him, had melted him.

Just then the fire, too, disappeared.
"Oh!" cried Nancy. "It's all magic!
That awful Flap-Doodle is using the stolen wand. He's melted his best friend!"

"He's wasn't my best friend," said
a voice behind them. "He meddled in everything I did."

Quick as a flash they turned, just in time to catch a glimpse of Flap-Doodle, himself, holding tight to the coveted wand.

But even as they looked, he flapped
his ears and faded away from view.

OUT OUR WAY

A DIFFICULT DEMONSTRATION.

AS IT SEEMS

By Berton Braley

WHEN Uncle Sam was running of the railroads
There was quite a lot of kicking at the job.
For some people would forget war conditions must be met.
And the air with many protests was a throb;
All the knockers in the country made a tumult,
So your Uncle Sammy made his little bow,
And, admitting all his boners, gave the roads back to their owners.
And—you see how much improvement there is now.

WHEN Uncle Sam was running of the railroads,
He lost a lot of money, it is true.
And the private operators posed as rehabilitators.
Who would doctor up the roads and pull 'em through.
All they asked of Uncle Sam was half a billion,
With another half a billion now and then;
Then they added to the rate on the passengers and freight,
So the public paid 'em half as much again.

WHEN Uncle Sam was running of the railroads,
He didn't do as well as we might ask.
But they helped to win the war (which was what we took 'em for).
After private owners bungled at the task.
Still, we rated private ownership a blessing,
Though at present it seems rather the reverse,
For it surely seems to me, viewing matters as they be,
That your Uncle Sam could hardly run 'em worse.

POLO WILL SEE GOOD BOXING EXHIBITION LABOR DAY AFTERNOON

Joe Mandell and the Freeport Flash Meet in Ogle County.

(Special to the Telegraph.)

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 22.—Joe Mandell, Rockford's sensational bantam and brother to Sammy Mandell, nationally famous as a featherweight, will appear in a boxing exhibition at Polo on Labor Day.

Promoter Albert J. Bracken of the Polo American Legion has secured Lou Rollinger, the Freeport flash, as Joe's opponent and that means ten rounds or so of bloody warfare, for both boys can sock with the strength of a mule's hind foot.

Rollinger is the same lad who some time ago in his first fight gave Bud McFadden of Sterling the worst licking that worthy boxer has probably ever received, and at the same time Rollinger escaped with no mark on his face other than a few beads of perspiration.

While Rollinger will outweigh Mandell not a little, Joe's greater experience, speed and ring craft should cut down this handicap not a little.

Both are training in Rockford, Joe at the R. A. C. and Rollinger at Hank Garrett's Olympic club. Hank Garrett was training boxers before the twentieth century came into being, and knows how to put a boy in condition for the most grueling of fights.

Fighters Are Young.

Joe Mandell is 21 years of age and Rollinger is less than nineteen. Therefore "youth will be served" the Polo public, and fight fans of the vicinity on Labor Day.

Rollinger and Garrett will probably arrive in Polo on Saturday, Aug. 2, to put the finishing touches on their conditioning, while Mandell and his matchmaker, Wilton Floberg, will motor to Polo on Sunday, and rest well before the big fight on the following day.

Summer Fruits as Winter Dainties

Uncle Sam Has Encouraged the Art of Preserving and Canning—The Secret Is in Utensils and Care—What Enamelled Ware Utensils to Use for Preserving—What to Can and When.

TURNING winter into summer is the art upon which the good housewife particularly prides herself. It is when the preserves and jellies are put on the table that the hostess expects her most gratifying compliment.

And it is a real art, preserving and canning fruits and vegetables. It is not a difficult one, because with a little care and patience and good fruit and the right utensils, any cook can fill her cellar or pantry shelves with long rows of jars which bring the tang and flavor of summer to winter's table. What can better bring the breath of summer when the snow is on the ground than opening a jar of cherries? And what better mark of a good housewife than the foresight and wise economy and regard for her family's appetite expressed in preserves?

Uncle Sam should be given great credit for reviving and keeping alive this valuable home art, which for a time threatened to be lost. The government's excellent and encouraging bulletins have brought back many active housewives to the work which was the joy and pride of their mothers' and grandmothers' hearts. These bulletins are free and they supplant the cookbook in homes all over the country every summer. The agricultural colleges of the various states, the farm bureaus, with their home demonstration agents, the great colleges like Columbia and Cornell, the farm papers and newspapers—all have done the American housewife a very useful service in telling her how to save the fruit crop.

Good Recipes Are Heirlooms

And here are some practical hints and successful recipes which have been handed down like heirlooms from mother to daughter for generations. They are old-time recipes to which have been applied the most modern methods and utensils—some have never before been printed.

There is a very distinct difference between canning and preserving, though the terms are often carelessly used as if they were interchangeable. In canning fruits the fruit is kept as whole and looking as much like fresh fruit as possible. It is also prepared with the minimum amount of sugar. Preserves, on the other hand, are very much richer—more sugar is used in their preparation and they are valuable aids in making cakes, tarts and puddings. Jams, jellies and compotes are included in the class of preserves. The great secrets of successful canning and preserving are in the utensils used and in the patience in carrying out each step thoroughly. The process can never be hastened, and every method and recipe calls for slow and careful cooking. Our great-grandmothers met the problem by cooking in earthenware vessels, which were, of course, heavy and clumsy. In old recipe books we often come across the caution to be sure to use a wooden spoon for stirring. Fortunately our modern housekeeper has at hand a light, durable ware with all the advantages and none of the disadvantages our predecessors had to bear. In enamelled ware the porcelain-like surface is as impervious to the action of the acids in fruits as were the heavy earthenware dishes and it preserves the color or flavor of the fruit. And, of course, the wooden spoon is replaced by the modern enamelled ware ladle or skimmer.

Enamelled Ware Utensils Important

The simplest outfit of enamelled ware—just the minimum essentials of utensils for preserving—consists of a preserving kettle of medium size, a colander, a ladle, a skimmer and a long spoon. The prudent housewife will have also a smaller size preserving kettle for smaller berries and smaller quantities and if possible a large size kettle, too. Other very convenient enamelled ware utensils which are in the equipment of the experienced housewife are a good-sized bowl, a pitcher, a rinsing pan, a saucepan and a dipper. Of course, enamelled ware measuring cups and fruit jar funnels are handy, and extra ladles, skimmers and spoons always come in useful at a critical moment. And the enamelled ware jar sterilizer or "canner," in which the jars are sterilized by boiling water, is just made for the purpose, and does away with many inconveniences in using makeshifts.

The canning of vegetables is an art in itself. The cold pack method, so-called, is coming into universal and deserved popularity for this process. As the vegetables are cooked in the jars an enamelled ware holder for the jars is absolutely necessary. The regular enamelled ware canner is very convenient—it is fitted with a tray through which pint and quart jars can be placed and held quite firmly through the heating process. Of course, bowls for holding the cut vegetables while packing the jars, colander, ladle and rinsing pan are all invaluable adjuncts in handling the vegetables.

Currants, Raspberries and Cherries

July brings with it that important little berry, the currant. The day was when no self-respecting housewife could be without her currant jelly, and it is really the only perfect jelly for use with meats, such as mutton, duck, squab, etc. Here is a recipe, which as long ago as 1852 was admittedly one of the very best and most reliable of rules. It may be tried today with perfect confidence. Take ripe but not overripe currants. Pick from the stems (the old expression was "strip" them). Put in an enamelled ware preserving kettle over a slow fire at first until the juice is started. Boil gently an hour. Pour into a linen or flannel bag and let the juice drip out. Measure the juice, allow one pound of sugar to one quart of juice, and place the juice in the kettle on the stove. Let it just come to a boil. Add the sugar a handful at a time, stirring constantly with an enamelled ware spoon. Pour into glasses as soon as all the sugar is melted.

Raspberries are also with us in July. They may be canned but are much better in jam. A particularly nice combination is a jam made of three-quarters raspberries to one-quarter currants, which is made in the same way as any other jam. Blackberries are abundant and make a good jam. And, by the way, a very good remedy for the summer stomachache of young children is the juice of blackberries, strained off and boiled down with stick cinnamon, whole cloves and a little ginger-root.

Cherries are perhaps the July fruit of greatest popularity. The best cherries for preserving or canning are the prolific bearers, the Morello cherries. They are very acid and offer but little temptation in their natural state, but cooked they become excellent and make an attractive addition to the preserve closet. The cherries should be stoned before being used either for canning or preserving. For canning, place the cherries in the enamelled ware preserving kettle over a slow fire. No water should be added, as enough juice will speedily cook out to keep the cherries from burning. Let them simmer gently in their own juice until they are tender; then add sugar in the proportion of one cup of sugar to one of the cooked cherries. This is more than the usual allowance of sugar, but the cherries are so acid that they require this amount. Cherry jam makes excellent winter pies and a pretty addition to plain puddings. That is made by cooking the cherries down to a smooth mass and adding the sugar as in canning.

The vegetable offering the most temptation for canning in July is the delicious green pea. The little French cress is also ready for canning at this time and make a Watermelons are with us in August and their rind makes a very nice and delicate preserve, though rather a fussy one to prepare. Pare and cut the rind of a ripe melon into strips; place these strips in an enamelled ware preserving kettle and cover with alum water. To make this alum water add two teaspoonfuls of powdered alum to each quart of water. Put the kettle on the stove, heat gradually to boiling point and boil for ten minutes. Drain off the alum water. Cover the melons with ice water and let them stand two hours. Drain off the ice water and dry the melons between towels. Weigh the melons and allow one pound of sugar to one pound of fruit and one cup of water to each pound of sugar. Boil the sugar and water together ten minutes. Add melon rind and cook until tender. Sliced lemons may be added to the rind.

August is a busy time for the vegetable canner. Tomatoes are now in their perfection, lima beans are ready late in the month and corn claims much attention. Okra is excellent canned alone or canned with tomatoes.

What to Do With Grapes
Peaches and pears come to us with September. The canned peach is such a national institution that any suggestion for its preparation appears quite superfluous, but peach jam and peach marmalade are not so common and can be prepared just as well from inferior fruit. Use left-overs in that way.

Pears are apt to be rather insipid when canned, nor do they lend themselves well to jam. However, "ginger" pears, so-called, are very nice. Peel the pears and cut them in quarters; cook slowly in the regulation syrup, to which add thin slices of ginger-root. Sliced lemons may also be added. Bartlett pears are on the whole the best for canning.

Grapes make a most delicious jelly. They must be gathered when quite unripe—just when they have begun to turn and are still quite unfit to eat. The rule already given for currant jelly applies equally well to grapes. Ripe grapes carefully seeded make a rich and much appreciated jam. Cook slowly, skins and all, until the skins are perfectly tender. Add sugar in the proportion of one cup of sugar to two cups of grape jam.

Early frosts too often catch the canner of vegetables in September, but a favorable season may spare some extra tomatoes and corn.

With fruits coming to table so plentifully during the summer we are inclined to forget "if winter comes." But the wise housewife lives not only in the present but in the future, too. That is why, when she has put up her last jar of peaches or corn or the preserve shelf she knows she is ready for the worst winter and she can make a delight out of the most insipid meal. And when cranberries are in season she can also serve strawberries and cherries.

Watermelon Rind a Delicious Preserve

With August comes plums. All plums are good canned and most plums make a rich preserve or jam, but perhaps the most inviting of all plums for canning are the yellow plums which are known as greengages. As usually canned they lose their color and the name greengages seems a misnomer. Let the housewife try this method, however, and she will have a gage that is really green in color as well as name. Place a layer of carefully washed grape leaves in the bottom and line the sides of the enamelled ware preserving kettle. Put in a layer of the gages, then a layer of grape leaves until the kettle is full or the supply of gages exhausted. Simmer slowly until the leaves are nearly cooked away and the gages are green. Remove the gages and wash the preserving kettle. Make a syrup with very little water, one-half pint of water to each pound of sugar, and put it in the preserving kettle on a hot fire. When the syrup boils add the gages and let the fruit cook one-half hour in the syrup. This makes a real company dish which never fails to excite admiring comment.

"Was it the collar you were looking for in the cupboard?" said Bill eagerly.

"Of course. Why no collar?" I said. For some reason Cayley considered it necessary to hide all Mark's clothes; not just the suit, but everything which he was wearing, or supposed to be wearing, at the time of the murder. But he hadn't hidden the collar. Why? Had he left it out by mistake? So I looked in the cupboard. It wasn't there. Had he left it out on purpose? If so, why?—and where was it? Naturally I began to say to myself, "Where have I seen a collar lately? A collar, all by itself? And I remembered—what, Bill?"

Bill frowned heavily to himself, and shook his head.

"Don't ask me, Tony. I can't—'By Jove!' He threw up his head. 'In the basket in the office bed-room.'"

"Exactly."

"But is that the one?"

"The one that goes with the rest of the clothes? I don't know. Where else can it be? But if so, why send the collar quite casually to the wash in the ordinary way, and take immense trouble to hide everything else? Why, why, why?"

Bill bit hard at his pipe, but could think of nothing to say.

"Anyhow," said Anthony, getting up restlessly, "I'm certain of one thing. Mark knew on the Monday that Robert was coming here."

"Is this right for the Red House? or something like that, sir?"

"What did you say?"

"I said, 'This is the Red House. Who do you want to see?' He was a bit rough-looking, you know, sir, and I didn't know what he was doing there."

"Well, sir, he said, 'Is Mister Mark Ablett at home?' It doesn't sound much like that, sir, but I didn't care about the way he said it. So I got in front of him like, and said, 'What do you want, eh?' and he gave a sort of chuckle and said, 'I want to see my dear brother Mark.'"

"Well, then I took a closer look at him, and I see that 'praps he might be his brother, so I said, 'If you'll follow the drive, sir, you'll come to the house. Of course I can't say if Mr. Ablett's at home.' And he gave a sort of nasty laugh again, and said, 'Fine place Mister Mark Ablett's got here. Plenty of money to spend, eh? Well, then I had another look at him, but before I could make up my mind, he laughed and went on. That's all I can tell you, sir.'"

Andrew Amos stepped down and moved away to the back of the room, nor did Anthony take his eyes off him until he was assured that Amos intended to remain there until the inquest was over.

"Who's Amos talking to now?" he whispered to Bill.

"Parsons. One of the gardeners. He's at the outside lodge on the Stanton road. They're all here today. Sort of holiday for 'em."

"I wonder if he's giving evidence, too," thought Anthony.

He was. He followed Amos. He had been at work on the lawn in front of the house, and had seen Robert Ablett arrive. He didn't hear the shot—not to notice. He was a little hard of hearing. He had seen a gentleman arrive about five minutes after Mr. Robert.

"Can you see him in court now?" asked the coroner.

Parsons looked round slowly. Anthony caught his eye and smiled.

"That's him," said Parsons, pointing. Everybody looked at Anthony.

"That was about five minutes afterward."

"About that, sir."

"Did anybody come out of the house before this gentleman's arrival?"

"No, sir. That is to say I didn't see 'em."

Stevens followed. She gave her evidence much as she had given it to the inspector. Nothing new was brought out by her examination. Then came Elsie. As the reporters scribbled down what she had overheard, they added in brackets "Sensation" for the first time that afternoon.

"How soon after you had heard this did the shot come?" asked the coroner.

"Almost at once, sir."

"Were you still in the hall?"

"Oh, no, sir. I was just outside

Mrs. Stevens' room. The house-keeper, sir."

"You didn't think of going back to the hall to see what had happened?"

"Oh, no, sir. I just went in to Mrs. Stevens, and she said, 'Oh, what was that?' frightened-like. And I said, 'That was in the house, Mrs. Stevens, that was.' Just like something going off, it was."

"Thank you," said the coroner.

There was another emotional disturbance in the room as Cayley went into the witness-box, not "Sensation" this time, but an eager and, as it seemed to Anthony, sympathetic interest. Now they were getting to grips with the drama.

He gave his evidence carefully, unemotionally—the lies with the same slow deliberation as the truth. Anthony watched him intently, wondering what it was about him which had this odd sort of attractiveness. For Anthony, who knew that he was lying, and lying (as he believed) not for Mark's sake but his own, yet could not help sharing some of that general sympathy with him.

"Was Mark ever in possession of a revolver?" asked the coroner.

"Not to my knowledge. I think I should have known if he had been."

"You were alone with him all that morning. Did he talk about this visit of Robert's at all?"

"I didn't see very much of him in the morning. I was at work in my room, and outside, and so on. We lunched together and he talked of it then a little."

"In what terms?"

"Well, sir, he hesitated, and then went on, 'I can't think of a better word than "peevishly."'

"You didn't hear any conversation between the brothers when they were in the office together?"

"No. I happened to go into the library just after Mark had gone in, and I was there all the time."

"Was the library door open?"

"Oh, yes."

"Did you see or hear the last witness at all?"

"No."

"Would you call Mark a hasty-tempered man?"

Cayley considered this carefully before answering.

"Hasty-tempered, yes," he said. "But not violent-tempered."

"Was he fairly athletic? Active and quick?"

"Active and quick, yes. Not particularly strong."

"Yes. . . . One question more. Was Mark in the habit of carrying any considerable sum of money about with him?"

"Yes. He always had one £100 note on him, and perhaps ten or twenty pounds as well."

"Thank you, Mr. Cayley."

Cayley went back heavily to his seat. "Damn it," said Anthony to himself, "why do I like the fellow?"

"Anthony Gillingham?"

Again his eager interest of the room could be felt. Who was this stranger who had got mixed up in the business so mysteriously?

Anthony smiled at Bill and stepped up to give his evidence.

He explained how he came to be staying at the "George" at Woodham, how he had heard that the Red House was in the neighborhood, how he had walked over to see his friend Beverly, and had arrived just after the tragedy. Thinking it over afterward he was fairly certain that he had heard the shot, but it had not made any impression on him at the time.

"You and the last witness reached the French windows together and found them shut?"

"Yes."

"You pushed them in and came to the body. Of course you had no idea whose body it was?"

"No."

"Did Mr. Cayley say anything?"

"He turned the body over, just so as to see the face, and when he saw it, he said, 'Thank God.'"

Again the reporters wrote "Sensation."

"Did you understand what he meant by that?"

"I asked him who it was, and he said that it was Robert Ablett. He explained that he was afraid at first it was the cousin with whom he lived—Mark."

"Yes. Did he seem upset?"

"Very much so at first. Less when he found that it wasn't Mark."

C. P. Hennessy in Firm Distributing Lincoln and Ford

The following article from the Minneapolis Tribune concerns C. P. Hennessy, formerly of Dixon, and will be of interest to his many friends here:

Organization of the Gluck-Hennessy Motor company, which has taken over the business of the Madsen-Peterson company, 120 Tenth St. S., has been completed and the new company, the officers of which are Alvin G. Gluck, Eugene J. Gluck and Charles P. Hennessy, will assume the distribution of the Lincoln and Ford car.

The Madsen-Peterson company, which formerly had exclusive sales privileges for the twin cities on the Lincoln car, had occupied the Tenth street location for nearly two years and according to Mr. Hennessy, who has been general manager of the Madsen-Peterson company and who will continue in that capacity with the newly organized company, virtually the entire personnel of the former company will be retained. Before assuming the sales management Mr. Hennessy was associated with the Lincoln Motor company.

The Madsen-Peterson company only recently became distributors of the Ford car, Fordson tractor and motor parts, and our company will continue with these parts," said Mr. Hennessy. "Also, we will continue to operate our sales and service departments at the present location, 120 Tenth street S."

Coroner Probes the Death of Bride Who Was Burned By Stove

Morris, Ill., Aug. 21.—A coroner's jury, investigating the death of Mrs. Thomas Cushing, 19, a bride of last spring, held up its verdict today while Grundy county officials sought further evidence of the cause of the wounds on Mrs. Cushing's head.

The young woman died on Saturday, two hours after an oil explosion in her kitchen had set her home on fire. She was seriously burned and was conscious only long enough to say, "This will kill me."

Thomas Cushing, the husband, told Sheriff Mack, State's Attorney Flood and Coroner Sachse that he was asleep on Saturday afternoon while his wife was working in the kitchen. He was awakened by the explosion, he said, and groped through smoke filled rooms in a vain effort to find his wife.

James McDermott, who was working near the house, heard the ex-

The coroner said the nature of this and other wounds caused him to continue his investigation because these wounds could not have been caused in the young woman's efforts to flee from the burning house.

Harding Favors the Training of Youths for Army Service

Washington, Aug. 21.—President Harding in an address here today to citizen soldiers from Camp Meade declared that he favored military training for more than 100,000 civilians annually, not for any prospective aggressive warfare, but to preserve peace.

After reviewing the civilian troops on the Ellipse, adjacent to the White House grounds, the president called attention to the fact that 28,000 civilians were affected training this summer, compared with 11,000 last year. He said the review had given new confidence, but added that there was not a thought in America for armed warfare, the nation being concerned only in preserving peace of the world.

Notwithstanding the fact that the crude oil production is very heavy at this time, the rapid increase in the production of automobiles and other automotive machinery has created a demand which already is greater than the increased supply.

The current output of the several large refineries of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) supplemented by the reserves now on hand, enables the Company to guarantee that the public shall have a steady, dependable supply of Red Crown Gasoline at its command.

Because of its size, its progressive and efficient management, its ample resources, and unrivaled facilities, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to provide the needful amounts of petroleum products to supply the vast demands made upon it. Its manufacturing facilities are planned to anticipate these needs years in advance and always are ready for service. Its constantly expanding distribution system is growing as the need for this service grows. Even in the remote corners of the 10 states served by this Company, the dark green tank wagon is a familiar and welcome visitor.

No matter how the production of crude oil has fluctuated, no matter how urgent the demand nor how limited the supply, motorists will recall that not once in the most stringent emergencies of the past has the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) through any fault of its own, failed to supply their essential needs. This Company has every confidence that its future record of service will be equally satisfactory.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—The St. Louis Browns continue to pound the ball hard, but succeeded only in fattening their batting averages, while their struggle to stay near the front runners in the American League race grew weaker. They outthrew the Athletics in the last of the four game series, but lost 7-6. The Mackmen took three of the four games.

This loss of the Browns placed them a game and a half behind the leading Yankees, who were idle. The Browns today will engage the Red Sox at Boston, while Speaker's Clevelanders open a series with the Yankees at the Polo grounds.

Detroit's club had another of its heavy hitting spells in Boston, gathering 19 blows off four Red Sox hurlers and winning 16 to 2.

The Pirates easily defeated the Braves, 5-1. Hamilton, the Pittsburgh boxman, holding the Boston hitters at bay until the 9th, when three hits produced their one run.

The New York Yankees, although idle, gained a half game on the St. Louis Browns, who were handed a setback by the Athletics.

William of the Browns ran his string of hitting in consecutive games to 23.

The Pirates took the Braves into camp in the only National League game played. The Pirates' eleven hits were divided among every player.

Thinking of Tomorrow

If by some magic the curtain of the future might be drawn back and you could see life as it will be ten or twenty years from today—where would you be?

You know the answer. The men and women who will then have the most independence and influence in our community will be the ones who today think and plan most wisely for the tomorrows—and hold themselves ready to take advantage of every opportunity that comes.

Nothing will help you more, five or ten years from now, than the dollars you can save by starting today—and you can save best by getting some bank to co-operate with you. As members of the Federal Reserve Banking System we are prepared to co-operate with you in every way. Let us show you how to save and to make your money work for you.

Irish Rebels Lose Two More Strongholds

Dublin, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—National army forces have captured Bandon and Dunmanway, two of the few remaining rebel strongholds in South Ireland, and the irregulars are hastily retreating. Bandon is 15 miles southwest of Cork and Dunmanway is the same distance west of Bandon. The advice said to have been given by Eamon De Valera to the irregulars, that they were free to return to their homes when they thought fit, seems to have had its effect, as many have already resumed civil life.
